

Editor's Comment:

To be acceptable for publication, the authors have to substantially, seriously revise the already revised version:

1. Add the country "India" to the paper title.
2. Use "and" instead of "&" throughout the entire text.
3. "Documentation" is very poor choice of word for a research paper. Why not delete it!
4. No sub-heading is needed in the abstract.
5. Use only one form of reference citation format in the text. Please get rid of the "[1], [2], ..." format.
6. All the figures repeat the same data already shown in the tables. Again, delete them and just keep all the tables. Besides, the figures are extremely difficult to interpret the intended results.
7. The methodology descriptive is too brief. More detail must be given to justify the validity and accuracy of the gathered information and data.

All the recommendations must be supported by relevant literature and previous studies to convince the readers.
