Manuscript Title: "Influence of family type on academic performance of secondary school students in Public secondary schools in Narok South Sub county, Narok County Kenya".

The article addresses the impact of family type on academic performance. The author has followed the right steps of scientific research: with regard to sample selection, and collected data via questionnaires, interviews as well as documentary analysis. The data analysis was also appropriate. The reviewers did an excellent evaluation, and the author has revised the manuscript accordingly. It is now ready for publication.
