Journal Name:	International Journal of Environment and Climate Change
Manuscript Number:	Ms_IJECC_90705
Title of the Manuscript:	Effects of blanching on nutrient dynamics in edible shoots of Bambusa nutans Wall ex Munro and Bambusa balcooa Roxb.
Type of the Article

General guideline for Peer Review process:

This journal's peer review policy states that NO manuscript should be rejected only on the basis of 'lack of Novelty', provided the manuscript is scientifically robust and technically sound. To know the complete guideline for Peer Review process, reviewers are requested to visit this link:

PART 1: Review Comments

	Reviewer's comment	Author's comment (if agreed with reviewer, correct the manuscript and highlight that part in the manuscript. It is mandatory that authors should write his/her feedback here)
Compulsory REVISION comments	The edibility properties of two bamboo varieties are discussed in this study. The blanching method is not explained. The following statement can be moved to the statistical method section 'The experiment was laid out with factorial Complete Randomized Design. The first factor was consisting of two levels i.e. B. nutans and B. balcooa and second factor was the treatments with two levels viz. raw bamboo shoots and blanched bamboo shoots and each treatment was replicated five times and the mean value was computed for further analysis'. The amount of Hydrogen cyanide is an important criterion for the edible properties of bamboo. More detailed discussion can be made on this subject.
Minor REVISION comments
Optional/General comments	Sensory analysis could be conducted in this study.

PART 2:

	Reviewer's comment	Author's comment (if agreed with reviewer, correct the manuscript and highlight that part in the manuscript. It is mandatory that authors should write his/her feedback here)
