Compulsory REVISION comments	The manuscript title is interesting and the English grammar is good. However, the content of the manuscript is not scientifically robust and technically sound. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The introduction fails to give concert reasons for the investigation, especially why the need for evaluate land preparation. 2. The material and methods are too shallow. The data collected and the result lack in-depth. The authors should enrich the paper with growth and yield data. Also, it is just a one season trial with just very few parameters measured, 3. The discussion is very poor. This need much improve if the paper is to be considered for publication. 4. There is no novelty in this work and most finding were not significate.
