

Editor's Comment:

I am recommending publication of this paper after some minor editing. I believe that the authors can take care of this editing themselves as it would involve some small edits. The paper does not need to be sent to a professional editor. There are two examples I can point out concerning the small edits needed. For example, on p. 2 in the first full paragraph, it is probably better to say ... We investigate changes (rest of sentence OK). Then, on p. 9 in the discussion, in one of the final sentences to a paragraph, the word whole appears, and I think the proper word should be while.

Editor's Details:

Dr. Stan Weeber
Professor, Mc Neese State University in Lake Charles, Louisiana, USA.