Clarity of expression is quite poor; inappropriate use of tenses; generally poor grammatical construct.3. Title of article not clear; needs rephrasing4. Work is more phytochemical characterisation than physicochemical characterisation.5. What effects do screened phytochemicals have on germination, malting or brewing processes? What effects do they have on the resultant beer/drink?
Minor REVISION comments	While researcher(s) recommend local brewers to malt on certain days of germination and at certain temperatures for a quality beer, it should be noted that temperatures across geographical regions vary. Hence, they need more guidance on monitoring temperature during malting.
Optional/General comments
