Compulsory REVISION comments	The article shows a good review about the medicinal properties of 4 plants: Dalbergia odorifera, Dalbergia sissoo, Dalbergia melanoxyton and Dalbergia lactea vatke. These plants have been used medicinally for thousands of years all over the world. The authors made a compilation of the pharmacological activity of the bark, leave, heart wood, root, and fruits of these plants. The first three of these plants have medicinal properties due to the compounds they contain, such as secondary metabolites (terpenoids and neo and iso flavonoids), cinnamoylflavan and benzofuran. These phytochemicals show biological activities such as, anti-inflammatory, anti-cancer, antioxidant, anti-microbial, anti-diabetic, and analgesic activities.	Agreed and Corrected
Minor REVISION comments	I am sending back to you the pdf version of the article since it contains many typos, such as missing spaces between words or between a coma and the next word, missing of the "e" letter in the word Dalbergia, they wrote China with lowercase, they use expressions such as "diseases and etc" and should be "diseases, etc." In the page 2 they mention "this seminar" but now they a presenting an article. I highlighted in yellow all the places where there is something to correct.	I agree and corrected in the manuscript
Optional/General comments
