

Editor's Comment:

After evaluation of the manuscript entitled "Exploring the quality of dried tilapia (Oreochromis niloticus) processed using different drying methods" (Manuscript number: 2022/AFSJ/93124), It has been observed the authors addresses all the comments and recommendations in manuscript. Therefore, I suggest to accepting of this article for publishing after few corrections.

The title need to modify- Author could be write like "Effects of different drying methods....."

The language of abstract need to check and correct

Author needs to mention section about used chemicals and reagents in the experiments in materials and method section

Total carbohydrates and energy (kcal) are also experimental parameter of proximate composition of products. Therefore, authors need to calculate and report the said parameters.
