

Editor's Comment:

I have seen the specific manuscript before starting to do anything else.

Few comments I have to say:

I cannot understand the point that the "author needs urgent decision" about his manuscript. This is not a scientific process for any author. All the journals have processes which need to be respected. The issue of the manuscript "Ophtalmology in Ancient Egypt" and consequently the content of the manuscript is not suitable for the specific journal. I cannot find the link between the manuscript and a Journal about Education and Social Studies. For this reason I cannot recommend it for publication. I believe that this had to be the first step before sending it to reviewers.

Finally in the specific case it seems to be a problem with the reviewers. How is it possible to have only a grade without any comments. I believe that in the case of so positive evaluation, reviewers need to be asked (at the form) to justify their position.
