

Editor's Comment:

First of all the paper in my opinion is accepted for publication.

The authors underwent all the corrections required by the reviewers however still certain points need to be properly clarified:

First is the exclusion section, the authors didn't exclude or even mention that the patient who has received previous radiation therapy has been excluded from the study I believe this is very important to exclude any possible bias in this study.

Secondly, the authors mentioned that they have excluded certain patients from the study for different reasons but in the results I didn't find any referral for the exact number that has been excluded ; each group started and ended with 30 patients!

I believe that this paper can be published if the authors give a good explanation for the two previously mentioned points.
