

Editor's Comment:

Regarding the JERR 93574 paper, I have reviewed the original article, the comments of the referees, the corrections, and the second version. In my opinion, I believe that the authors have satisfactorily addressed the points made. I only note that references should not be put in the Abstract since it must be self-contained. The references should start in the Introduction section. This must be corrected.

Corrected the above, I consider that the article can be published.
