Compulsory REVISION comments	In my opinion, the authors, have to review, the manuscript. The title "A review of research on the preparation of grout from waste quartz sand", in abstract say: Cementitious grout is a paste made of cementitious materials, mineral admixtures, admixtures and water mixed in a certain ratio, which is widely used in construction projects. While in the manuscript, you can read "Effect of particle accumulation on the rheological properties of concrete". So is not according to the abstract.

Are there ethical issues in this manuscript?	(If yes, Kindly please write down the ethical issues here in details) I think yes. There are not the results or conclusion. The title is only about grout produced from waste quartz sand, while during the paper the research discusses about "Stacking effect of different aggregates in concrete".
