

Editor's Comment:

Greetings and I trust you are doing well. I have thoroughly assessed the revised manuscript and the review reports. My decision is to:

Accept with Minor Revisions

These further revisions must be done by the authors before finally accepting the manuscript:

1. In the last section of the abstract, you stated that 'There is need to mitigate oil spillage to its barest minimum in the study area.' This is a general recommendation. Restate the recommendation and task particular implementation actors or agencies and suggest specifically, what should be done and who should do it to mitigate the oil spillage in the study area.
2. There should be a consistency in the intext citations. Remove all initials. It should be author and year of publication style.
3. Remove website address from the intext citation and cite it properly.
4. There are very serious and unpardonable errors in grammar, syntax and sentence structures. Please thoroughly proofread the document with the assistance of a professional English Language editor or a proofreading service.
6. Based on the conclusion drawn, suggest possible areas of further research.
