PART 1: Review Comments

	Reviewer's comment	Author's comment (if agreed with reviewer, correct the manuscript and highlight that part in the manuscript. It is mandatory that authors should write his/her feedback here)
Compulsory REVISION comments	In the abstract, the source of data and method used in analysing the data should be stated. Author should revise his/her method used in analysing the data. Correlation coefficient only measures the strength of the linear relationship between two variables and should not and cannot be used in determining the contribution of the individual variables to the dependent variable. Author could use multiple linear regression model in this case, where the regression coefficients could be interpreted as the contributions of the individual variables depending on whether they are significant or not. Results of the study should be compared to previous findings where one can situate his/her findings as to whether his/her findings are in tandem with previous findings or not. Conclusion and recommendations should be based on the findings of the study. The findings should address the topic of the study. What is the conclusion on the topic?
Minor REVISION comments	Grammatical errors were noted in the manuscript and corrections have been suggested in the manuscript for the author(s) attention.
Optional/General comments	Manuscript should be accepted for publication if the revisions are carried out
