Compulsory REVISION comments	Abstract The abstract must be structured in five sections: Background, Objectives, Methods, Results, and Conclusions. See the attached file where I suggest a standard text. The references are inconsistent. Chose a style according to the journal's guidelines. The methods are described for the ELISA methodology for detecting the NSE (Neuron-Specific Enolase human ?????) and repeated over and over again. See the attached file where I suggest a single description for all ELISA assays. The results section cites the "TAS levels". What is this??????? It was not defined. I made 216 grammar and stylish corrections to improve the reading of the text. Please, find the corrections attached in the reviewer panel.
