|-------------------------------------|--|---|
| Compulsory REVISION comments | The work evaluates histopathological diagnosis and determination of grades and stages in breast cancer. The author employed significant methods that yielded important results. Histopathological grade 51.1% belonged to grade III followed by 28.9% grade II and 20% grade I. Histological stage showed most of the cases was stage II (48.9 %) followed by stage I (26.7 %) then stage III (24.4 %). Statistical analysis revealed a significant relation between MVD with increasing histologic grades and stages. The findings allowed the researchers to conclude that histological stage showed most of the cases was stage II followed by stage I then stage III. | |
| Minor REVISION comments | I find the article to be adequately well-equipped with all research guidelines and, therefore, need no revision in my opinion. I therefore recommend it for publication in your esteemed journal. | |
