Compulsory REVISION comments	The work is an interesting study regarding the use of some substances to slow down the degradation of papaya fruits during storage. The work is based on an extensive bibliographic study. The studied bibliography is cited in the introduction, but also in the discussion of the results. The experimental results are suggestively presented in graphs. Also, the photos are conclusive to support the results. The abstract is well prepared. The conclusions are concrete. The topic is of scientific and practical interest. I recommend the publication of the work.
