| Compulsory REVISION comments | This is the presentation of a very rare case of a foreign body in the abdominal cavity. In the presentation of this manuscript, it would be worth mentioning what are the acute and life-threatening complications of giant foreign bodies. I also suggest mentioning what was the preoperative diagnosis that forced the patient to intervene. |                                                                                                                                                                               |
