Minor REVISION comments	The study is well written in keeping with the scientific rigours of research. The researchers provided 1. Comprehensive background on the problem/question, 2. A research objective, 3. The context of the issue in a literature review, 4. Evidence to examine the research question, and 4. A thorough method and materials section were all used to conduct the study. However, many lengthy sentences need adjustments, as this would make an easier read of the material. As such, there is a need for some editorial work on this study before the final publication.
