Compulsory REVISION comments	This study examines the understanding of traffic signs and symbols as a safety measure towards accident reduction among drivers in Southern Nigeria. It has significance in practice. But there are some points should be improved. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. There are too many grammatical errors in this paper. Some modifications are suggested in the attached file. So The English language of the manuscript must be edited by a native English language speaker (many grammars and structure of sentences mistakes must be improved).. 2. A questionnaire form must be attached at the end of the manuscript. The following research paper can be used to improve the analysis of the survey results "Impact of Road Humps on the Pavement Surface Condition". 3. There are some references that need to be completed, for example7 " FRSC (2008). Revised edition of the Highway Code" 4. Why did this article not include a questionnaire for the opinions of the people responsible for managing road and traffic in your country? 5. It was better to use a software to analyze the questionnaire, such as the SPSS program So, my overall comment is that the paper should be revised and resubmitted for consideration of publication.
