

Editor's Comment:

There is absolutely no way that this paper can be accepted for publication. The literature review is not written in a proper journal format - they are just listed. The tables are not properly done with proper variable names. The conclusion is not written in a proper journal format.

Please, there needs to be standards for writing in the journal and meeting the format. If an article does not meet these minimum standards it cannot be sent out for review and reviewers must not accept articles in such a format and score them well. This does not do the journal well.

I unfortunately must reject this paper.
