

Editor's Comment:

This original research article focuses on the practice of mother tongues in Cameroon. It highlights the impact of colonialism on patterns of urbanization as well as the practice of mother tongues. It was a detailed well-designed and executed research study.

The reviewers, experts in the field, were generally positive and made several suggestions for improvement. The author has revised the manuscript accordingly. I therefore support publication in the Asian Journal of Education and Social Studies.

Editor's Details:

Dr. Nasser Mustapha
Senior Lecturer, University of the West Indies, St. Augustine, Trinidad.