Title is suitable. But the results of the reviewed manuscript did not declare that the improvement is due to admiration of antioxidants, it may be normal changes in those patients. There are a deficient in the results like: How the authors can declare that these effects are the effect of their treatment? Is there a spontaneous pregnancy? Are there a female factor of infertility? References not UpToDate!!! We have a published date in this field the authors can use it also The ARJGO102329 is a good issue for scientific interest and a material for those who are dealing with reproductive medicine and infertility treatment. Because of transfer
