

Editor's Comment:

My response has been written in the text and not in the reviewer form, to have a quick response for the decision. it will be your last decision to make, i think some of our authors produced quite short paper which, in some journals, are placed in the short communication. This is only 6 pages, which in fact it could be longer. analysis using parentage and averaged only, especially when the data are not that many, may not be much attractive for scientific community (i think).
