

Editor's Comment:

I carefully read the comments made by the second reviewer. Many of her points are in agreement with mine. This manuscript should be written in an academic style in the English version. It is important to take this into consideration, especially if the journal is to reach a more respectable level in the future. Additionally, I would like to see a similarity report for the manuscript. Despite these limitations, the subject studied appears to be of interest and importance. Upon completion of a good work on its English, the manuscript will be published.
