

Editor's Comment:

I cannot provide any decision on the manuscript for the time being.

Indeed, prior to any decision, the authors should address the reviewer's comment regarding references: There are references at the end of the paper but there are no references to them in the body of the text so it is not clear which reference refers to which statements.

References should be properly cited in the text.

Furthermore, the abstract should include the aim and provide some information about the methodology used (even for the review).
