To be more important for the scientific community, it would need to be supported by research data, contribute to the field's knowledge base, and offer practical insights for educators and researchers. The title of the article appears suitable for a discussion on the integration of technology in the mathematics classroom within the context of Ghana's educational system. However, the title could benefit from minor grammatical improvements. Consider revising it to read, "Incorporation of Technology in the Mathematics Classroom: An Assessment of its Extent in Ghana's Educational Landscape." This version maintains clarity while improving grammatical structure. The abstract does not mention research question or objective that the study aims to address. There is not mention regarding methodology, key findings, and expected implications. Yes As the present manuscript focused on review of existing literature, it is correct. However, including reviews of existing mathematics teachers will enhance the importance of the research. Below are some of the references which can be included in present study.  Karagianni, Eleni &amp; Drigas, Athanasios.
