

Editor's Comment:

About the work JERR 95946, I have seen the information received, including the first and second version of the article. The authors have taken into account some of the referees' remarks, and the scientific quality is good. But a misuse of the English language persists in the second version. As an example, some phrases: treatment plant, population density, there is an progress, etc. It is advised that a person skilled in the English language carry out a serious revision of the writing. In addition, the reference system must be changed to the one used by the JERR journal, consisting of numbered references.

Once the corrections have been made, the authors must resubmit the article.
