

Editor's Comment:

Review the manuscript : Observational study on dual marker of T cell activation for early diagnosis of HLH on peripheral blood, in its first version and the observations made by the reviewers, the authors have made the corresponding modifications and the manuscript is ready for publication

I only recommend that no abbreviation should be included in the title and that in the abstract after the first definition the authors can immediately put the abbreviation and from the first abbreviation use it in the text, in addition to using official abbreviations according to the MESH terms.
