

Editor's Comment:

The manuscript tackles a subject of indisputable practical interest.

The methodological approach and the results obtained both look satisfactory.

However, the interpretation of the results remains somewhat hampered by the expression in English language, which remains sometimes awkward.

However, the attentive reader will nevertheless be able to benefit from reading the bulk of the reported results themselves.

So that the manuscript, as it stands in its revised form, may nevertheless be considered useful reading for the community of practitioners and, therefore, acceptable for publication in IJECC.
