No, the discussion should be longer and it is also mandatory writing a conclusion 5. Yes , but I kindly suggest, expand and strengthen the results with bibliography. Many studies and books related to person-centered care can be helpful. Additionally, it is necessary to mention that depending on the areas of the hospital, contextualization of the guide may be required. 6. References are not enough. They should include additional references such as: -Person-Centered Outcome Metrology, William P Fisher (book, chapter 4) Patient centredness and quality improvement efforts in hospitals: rationale, measurement, implementation (paper). Based on these texts and perhaps other, you could expand the theoretical support of the results a little more, especially the recommendation to standardize nursing practice it based on person-centered care strategies -From Protocolization of Care to Nursing Care Practice: A Qualitative Research (paper); Caring for care: Ethics of compassion, beyond the protocolization of nursing care (paper). Those papers might be useful for discuss around de downside and the upside of guidelines, protocols, or nursing standard operating procedures. Result of the implementation of a quality management system based on the ISO 9001: 2015 standard in a surgical intensive care unit (paper)
