

Editor's Comment:

I checked very carefully the comments of the two reviewers and the revised version of the manuscript 2023/AJAEES/100738. Unfortunately, the authors have not followed the serious comments and suggestions of the second reviewer and the paper presents serious flaws in various points. My decision is to be accepted after a major revision of the paper.

Authors must improve the manuscript and especially take into account my main comments also:

1. Where is the location of Haryana? In which country? Describe the study area and add a map of this area.
2. Add more literature review because the topic is interesting and wide in the scientific community. Add also more references because the paper looks poor with a such an interesting topic.
3. Add a discussion section and compare in this your findings with the findings of similar studies. It is also necessary to discuss your results in depth.
4. Present arguments about the originality of your paper and the contribution of the study.
