

Editor's Comment:

Could you please acknowledge receipt of the comments in this email? I have asked you many times not to send out papers where the information in the paper is either bullets or numbered in the literature review or the conclusion. This does not fit accepted journal style.

However, you have sent me a paper once again with this formatting issue. These papers cannot be accepted like this. I understand the journal wants papers, however, there must be some standard that must be met.

Please do not send out papers for review that have this formatting. I am asking that you respond to me so that I know you have received this message and understand.
