Is the title of the article suitable? (If not please suggest an alternative title) 3. Is the abstract of the article comprehensive? 4. Are subsections and structure of the manuscript appropriate? 5. Do you think the manuscript is scientifically correct? 6. Are the references sufficient and recent? If you have suggestion of additional references, please mention in the review form. (Apart from above mentioned 6 points, reviewers are free to provide additional suggestions/comments)	Although COVID-19 pandemic seems to be under control it has change in many ways medical practice Thus an overview of how it has affected clinical practice can be interesting The effect of COVID-19 pandemic on surgical emergencies is more suitable Because the article is a review a brief summary without aim and methods and a brief conclusion is enough Actually the abstract should be rewritten The article is consisted from cuttings of various articles without much coherence. An introduction about COVID-19 and possible transmission during surgical operation should put at the beginning. The evolution of our beliefs and there effect on clinical practice can also be provided Thereafter it should follow a part describing how the pandemic has affected various parts of emergency surgery (flow of cases, conservative management) so that that general picture will not be lost among details Finally the authors should provide the way surgeons were treated COVID-19 positive cases If the authors orginise their material better the text will be easier to follow Tebal GD, et alEmergency surgery admissions and the COVID-19 pandemic: did the first wave really change our practice?
