Minor REVISION comments	This short article dealing with the importance of eco-literacy for the welfare of the Earth is a beautiful article and demonstrates the literary depth of the researcher or researchers. As for the feedback, it can be listed in bullet points as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - There is a clear repetition in some terms and phrases where the shortness of the article does not allow it to be included because it constitutes a factor of weakness. - Examples circulated within this MS. about ecosystems, their services and values, do not reflect deep scientific experience, and accordingly, it is possible to infer ecosystems and other benefits for the purpose of enlightenment and diversification. It is necessary to take into account this in order for this short article to appear worthy of depth and a wealth of experience. - English and references are so GOOD. - I wish those who wrote it success and guidance. - The article is accepted as a short communication after taking into account the above.
