

Editor's Comment:

1. The title of the article is now appropriate.
2. The discussion relating to children in this study does not tie in with any mineral needs of children. The reference to children is not demonstrated anywhere in the article. As such, it is difficult to understand why the authors bring in the idea into the discussion. Is it that it is only children who eat the vegetable or what? Don't other age groups eat the vegetable plants? How much do children or other consumers eat?
3. The issue of tying malnutrition to mineral inadequacy is not accurate. Upon insistence, then authors have to demonstrate that by literature asserting that as a cause and consequence.
4. The paper should be read and grammatically corrected by an English speaker or the authors seek publication of the work in French. As it is, I cannot recommend that this Journal accepts the paper for publication as it is.
