EDITORIAL COMMENT'S on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to editor's comments
a) The manuscript uses the present tense but the authors are advised to change to past tense. E.g., instead of "is" use "was," instead of "having" use "had," instead of "has been added," use "was added," etc. b) Minerals are not necessarily the only micronutrients in nutrition; the word micronutrients includes other food components that are found in small amounts and used by the body in micro amounts. So, the use of the word "micronutrients" for minerals alone as implied in this manuscript, is not acceptable. Please use the appropriate word in the manuscript, such as "minerals" c) The authors could give comparative nutrient content of the common vegetable consumed in Burkina Faso and what the FAO recommends as mineral daily intake for a particular group of consumers and discuss how it compares with the vegetables analyzed in this work. As it is, the work is too simplistic to have any academic and nutritional significance. d) The authors also bring in French words into the manuscript. This may not acceptable for this Journal. c) The grammar and therefore sentence construction are the main problems with this manuscript. The authors are advised to use the services of an English writer/speaker to rewrite the manuscript. The article is not acceptable as it is currently written.	a) Correction made on the manuscript b) Correction made on the manuscript c) discussion added d) Correction made e) Correction made
