

Editor's Comment:

In general, the paper is ok... but please ask the author to add (in the abstract also in the Results and Discussion also Conclusion) an explanation of whether the number of species and types of bees found are those that are generally found in the forest ecosystem? Are there any species that are not commonly found in the forest? If so, what happens in the forest ecosystem?

After the author adds it, please publish the paper.

Editor's Details:

Dr. Christine Wulandari
Head, University of Lampung, Indonesia.