Compulsory REVISION comments	Dear Editor In this article, the authors aimed to examine acute kidney injury after ureteral obstruction due to bladder signet ring cell adenocarcinoma. It was concluded that adenocarcinoma is a rare type of bladder cancer, while the signet ring cell adenocarcinoma subtype is rarer. I think that the study brings a new perspective to the etiology of acute renal failure. The abstract section provided sufficient and clear information about the study. The Introduction and Background sections are well prepared and provide useful information for readers. The results are clearly well presented, contain important clinical messages and may be of interest to readers. The overall level of the paper is good. This article has the potential to be accepted. We can contact you with any questions and suggestions. With all respect.
