

Editor's Comment:

The subject of the study looks of practical medical interest.

Reviewers have put forward some important requirements in order to improve the understandability of the manuscript, which the Authors have reasonably well accounted for.

Just one small additional suggestion: the latin name of Turmeric (which indeed is given in the text) should yet also figure in the title or, at least, in the list of key words for the sake of efficient future bibliographic research.

Once this is done, the revised form of the manuscript can be considered OK for publication in AJRAVS.
