

Editor's Comment:

After a careful analysis of the work, I could notice that the paper is actually good and has technical quality.

Reviewer 1 made pertinent remarks and requested to add good references. The authors complied with most comments, except for the request to correct table labelling.

Reviewer 2 made no comments and accepted the paper, so the paper had only actually one review.

There is also two issues that needs to be addressed by the authors:

- Some figures are not cross-referenced in the text (for example figures 1 and 2).
- There are still errors in the table captions numbers and respective cross-references in the text (for example, table 2 is introduced in the text as table 4)

Please tell the authors to make these corrections. After this procedure, I recommend that the paper is published.
