Optional/General comments	In this article, the authors have studied the physical and chemical properties as well as heavy soil elements in two regions of Niger. For this, they have taken a large amount of soil samples and prepared and analyzed them. A good job has been done and they have worked hard. The results have been presented in a good way, with this description, it is suggested that there are many simple tables in the results section to present the results, which should be presented mostly as graphs. Also, the scientific resources used are few
