<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Abstract - the content of amino acids should be expressed in mg%, in the work the authors did not determine the content of fatty acids and cholesterol, so where do the conclusions regarding these ingredients come from?</li> <li>2. Methodology - the description of the determination of the content of amino acids using HPLC is too laconic, there is no description of sample preparation, the condition of analysis (e.g. eluents and type of elution, column temperature, etc.) and information on the standards used,</li> <li>3. Tables 5 and 6 - the amino acid content should be expressed in mg/100g</li> <li>4. Literature - this is a total mess, e.g.:position 2 - no pages,</li> <li>5. item 3 - missing article title and magazine title,position 4 - ???</li> <li>6. position 8 - no article title,</li> <li>7.
