And the author(s) have found and revealed the laws of temperature on the RDF, which was in good agreement with the title. The abstract provided a concise and concise explanation of the research work and results on lead silicate glass. The subsections are suitable for the content and structure of the manuscript is well organized from the topic to the method and finally to the research results. The form of the references are suggested to be checked and the recent references about lead silicate glass are suggested to be added. Overall, I think it is a worthy work to be published.
