Optional/General comments	This is a spectacular manuscript. Sickle cell disease (SCD) stands as one of the most prevalent and debilitating genetic disorders globally, affecting millions of individuals across the world and its associated with a huge variety of morbidity ranging from pain crisis to acute chest syndrome to stroke. I believe the author can add a little note on sickle cell morbidity and the way it affect the quality of life of the sufferers just to buttress home his point.
