(If not please suggest an alternative title) 3. Is the abstract of the article comprehensive? 4. Are subsections and structure of the manuscript appropriate? 5. Do you think the manuscript is scientifically correct? 6. Are the references sufficient and recent? If you have suggestion of additional references, please mention in the review form. (Apart from above mentioned 6 points, reviewers are free to provide additional suggestions/comments)	The manuscript is important to the scientific community as it enhances decentralisation through devolution. Participation of community members in the identification, planning and execution are key in the success and sustainability of community-driven projects. The title of the article is suitable and informative as it indicates what was studied, study design and also location. The Abstract of the article is comprehensive. It is a good summary of the manuscript. A reader can easily tell the structure as follows: Introduction, Methods, Findings, Conclusion and Recommendations. All the subsections and structure of the manuscript are appropriate. Scientific soundness of research is mainly dependent on the methods used. I find the manuscript to be scientifically correct because the clear elaboration of methods that were used and clear link to the findings. I found the methods used to be scientifically sound. The references are sufficient but only 5 out of 29 (17%) are recent. I suggest extra sources to be considered such as: 1.
