If you have suggestion of additional references, please mention in the review form. (Apart from above mentioned 6 points, reviewers are free to provide additional suggestions/comments)	The manuscript reports a case study of land cover changes in a selected area of interest using a GIS software package and remote sensing imagery. This type of task is routinely performed by agencies interested in spatial planning and others. The scientific community would be less interested in the manuscript in terms of methods. Still, some members might find it a contribution towards understanding land cover alternations in the region. The title should reflect the data or method used in the study. For example, "A Study of Decade of Land Use Transformations in Akure's Peri-Urban Region (2011-2022) using Multispectral Landsat Imagery". Also, I suggest changing the term "Land Use" to Land Cover. The abstract is fine. The structure of the paper is fine. The author followed the correct procedure (supervised classification) to identify land cover changes in the area of interest. The reference list consists of over 50 items. I'm not sure if all the items are references in the text. This is a usual requirement of an editor. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Use an abbreviation (ha) instead of full word 'hectares'</li> <li>- Express the size of areas in full (ha). Drop decimals.</li> </ul>
