

Editor's Comment:

Efforts in improving income of small farmers especially in many developing countries through aids and extension services have been effectively and efficiently accomplished through the use of farmers groups (farmer's producers organizations). it is, therefore, of important to evaluate which parameters playing critical role in keeping the farmers group in operational at its best. This study is therefore necessary and important.

Accepted After Minor revision.

Editor's Details:

Dr. Samuel Leunufna
Associate professor, Pattimura University, Ambon, Indonesia