

Editor's Comment:

Following a detailed review and considering the insightful feedback from our reviewers, it is clear that the authors have successfully addressed the concerns raised. However, I must point out a couple of required additions:

1. The manuscript should include a statement on any potential competing interests.
2. There is a need to add a section detailing the contributions of each author.
3. The manuscript must be updated with recent references.
4. Ensure that all references are properly cited within the text as per our journal's guidelines.

Aside from these points, the manuscript is well-composed, concise, and aligns with our journal's editorial standards. I believe it is ready for publication once these modifications are made.
