Compulsory REVISION comments 1. Is the manuscript important for scientific community? (Please write few sentences on this manuscript) 2. Is the title of the article suitable? (If not please suggest an alternative title) 3. Is the abstract of the article comprehensive? 4. Are subsections and structure of the manuscript appropriate? 5. Do you think the manuscript is scientifically correct? 6. Are the references sufficient and recent? If you have suggestion of additional references, please mention in the review form. (Apart from above mentioned 6 points, reviewers are free to provide additional suggestions/comments)	The research on the gendered impact of climate change (CC) among paddy farmers in Kahama District, Shinyanga Region, Tanzania, seems quite interesting and highlights the differential vulnerabilities and adaptive capacities of male and female farmers, contributing to more targeted and effective climate resilience strategies. By uncovering gender-specific challenges and responses, the study provides valuable insights for policymakers to design inclusive and equitable agricultural interventions in the context of climate change. However, the following issues have to be addressed in the manuscript. The introduction is not robust enough and should not be limited to the study area. The authors should also discuss on the impact of CC among rice farmers in different parts of the world. There are too many short paragraphs in the manuscript. The paragraphs should be linked to previous or subsequent ones. The political map of the study area should be included after the discussion on the study area to enrich the quality of the manuscript. Also, the estimated human population, farming population, and major socio-economic activities in the area should be discussed in this section. What is the research gap or research problem necessitating the study? This should be discussed to carry readers along on the research problem that necessitated the study. What statistical techniques were used in analysing the interview and questionnaire data? This should be clearly explained under the methodology section. The discussion on the research findings should be supported with empirical references in the literature. This is required to strengthen the authenticity of the research findings.
Minor REVISION comments 1. Is language/English quality of the article suitable for scholarly communications?	Adequate
Optional/General comments
